Cameron, Texas, January 8, 2018 – The Milam Appraisal District is seeking information from local agricultural producers. Each year the District asks for specific input from local farmers to be used in setting agricultural value for the purpose of taxation. The survey is an opportunity for local farmers to provide the information used in the appraisal of agricultural land.

The survey asks for specific information on agricultural land lease prices as well as crop income and expenses. All information received will become part of a study that is used to set agricultural values for Milam County land owners.

“The input we receive from local producers is extremely important to us. Without it, we must rely solely on Federal and State databases that don’t always give us the most accurate information for Milam County.” – Dyann White, Chief Appraiser.

The survey is available on the Appraisal District’s website at: www.milamad.org. Printed copies are also available at the Appraisal District office at 120 N. Houston, Cameron, TX 76520.
